I live in this 3-bedroom home with my sister. It is on a beautiful block with wonderful neighbors.

My parents live around the corner, so family dinners are a frequent occurrence!

A photograph of a beach scene. In the foreground, there is a wide expanse of light-colored sand with some faint tracks. In the middle ground, a dark, rocky breakwater extends from the left towards the center. Waves are crashing against the rocks, creating white foam. The ocean extends to the horizon under a clear, light blue sky.

my happy place...

I always love to walk on the boardwalk, hear the waves crashing and just enjoy the view.

my family...

I am fortunate to have a wonderful and loving family who is supporting me on my adoption journey. My parents, married for 36 years, are everything I hope to be as a parent.

While there is a ten year difference between the oldest and youngest sibling, we are honestly best friends and would do anything for each other. And Molly, my fur sibling, completed the family and is the sweetest pup anyone could ask for!

To say everyone is excited to welcome a new member into the family is an understatement!

my extended family...

I am blessed to have grandparents, aunts, uncles, cousins and godparents who have helped shape me into the person I am today.

Family means so much to me. They are there for the highs and the lows and love you through it all. When I announced my adoption plan, I was only met with the greatest joy, love and support. All are excited to welcome your child into the family with open arms and the deepest love.
